

Compiler's Notes for Blackledge Stories

My publishing idea is to publish Volume 1 of Blackledge Stories in Nov 2018. Whatever I have by Oct 10, 2018, goes into the Volume 1. Use one of the 'cheapo' printers, but ask for Perfect Bind.

The main collection of files is under OneDrive > Documents > Mike > Blackledge Stories – so far, we have backed this up using the Seagate External Drive at Stalgren Ct. How about on Mega?

For free storage sites, Mega gives you 50 GB – but upload only, no desktop app like Dropbox.

pCloud offers 10 GB of free online storage, plus a desktop client can be installed for Windows box offers 10 GB of free online storage, with a desktop sync client – like Dropbox?

When comparing Box vs pCloud, the Slant community recommends pCloud for most people. In the question “What are the best cloud backup services?” pCloud is ranked 11th while Box is ranked 17th. The most important reason people chose pCloud is:

Allows you to store your HD videos, FLAC music files, and large documents.

IT Central Station has the opposite look: Box is ranked 1st in Cloud Storage, and pCloud is ranked 11th in Cloud Storage. The top reviewer of Box writes "Provides file sharing with collaborators not on the same domain with offline access from multiple devices.". Box is most often compared with Citrix ShareFile, ownCloud and SharePoint. pCloud is most often compared with Dropbox, Box and Zoolz Intelligent Cloud. See the entry of files under OneDrive > Documents > genealogy > Genealogy

Get the Pickering collection of photos for Lewis, Asa family photos – great! ... but where the heck is it?

Storing 'extra' photos for Blackledge Stories: in Dec 2017, I have stressed the storage space in my free Dropbox allocation and my free OneDrive allocation. Plus, Google space has been stressed for some time. Thus I decided to run a Gmail size:150000000 search and save off the big photos (like on Annabeth's sending 4 Wedding photos from 2013 when Doug and Suzanne (and Jerry & Barbara, Billy Faust, Tawny and Xenia) attended the ceremony in Atlanta hosted by Elaine and Annabeth. Thus I now have 'extra' Doug photos stored at Stalgren Ct desktop:

LenovoPC-StalgrenCt > Pictures > Blackledge Stories > Doug

My next idea is to use the Mega storage, plus one with a desktop app (like Dropbox and OneDrive).
